EAST LIVERPOOL, O., WEDNESDAY, JUNE 6, 1900.

TWO CENTS

PREPARATIONS ARE COMPLETED

For the Laying of the Corner Stone of the New St. Stephen's P. E. Church.

A VERY ELABORATE PROGRAM

Many Visitors From Out of Town and Notable Church Dignitaries Will Be Here.

SERVICES

BEGIN SATURDAY.

The ceremonies of laying the corner stone of the new St. Stephen's Episcopal church will be held on June 9, 10 and 11. The church is located on the site of the old church on Fourth street.

On the evening of Saturday, June 9, the Men's Social club of the church will give an entertainment in the parish building from 7 o'clock to 10. The guest of honor will be Rev. F. E. Lloyd, D. D., of Cleveland. The members of the club have extended many invitations and a large gathering and a good social time is expected. Sunday. June 10, the two special services to be held in connection with the festival will be held. The morning service will be held at 11 o'clock and the evening service at 7:30. If the weather is favorable it is probable that the services will take place on the foundations of the new building. which it is hoped will be sufficiently completed by that time.

The ceremony of the corner stone laying will take place Monday evening at 7 o'clock, conducted by Rt. Rev. W. A. Leonard, D. D., bishop of the Episcopal church in the state of Ohio. The corner stone will be laid with a solid silver trowel, which, after being used, will be presented to the bishop by the congregation to be kept by him in memory of the occasion. The rector, Rev. Edwin Weary, extend the most cordial invitation to the citizens of East Liverpool and surrounding county to attend the exercises and witness the ceremonies Monday evening.

The box containing the documents and papers which will be placed in the corner stone is made of copper and will be hermetically sealed. The contents will be read by the rector to the congregation Sunday evening and the box will be sealed on Monday morning. Ample arrangements have been made by the rector and members of the congregation for the accommodation of all who may be in attendance, and it is expected that the number will be quite large.

The music for the occasion will be rendered by the vested choir of 30 voices under the leadership of Samuel Frost. Much care has been taken in the selection of the music and the same is being carefully rehearsed, and it is expected that this feature of the event will be most excellent.

The foundation is nearing completion and by the appearance of the space covered by the building it will not be long before the handsome edifice will prove itself an ornament to the city and a pride of the congrega-

POTTERY STRIKE.

Workmen at the East Trenton Pottery Cease Work-Claim That Pay Has Been Reduced.

Trenton, June 5.—(Special)—A strike is on at the East Trenton pottery and the works are generally closed down as a result. Seven glost kilnmen have refused to work under the new scale, and in consequence the clay hands, dishmakers and biscuit kiln nands have been thrown out.

The striking kilnmen claim their pay has been reduced from $18 to $14 per week owing to the reduction in the number of days in which they are allowed to fill a kiln. They claim that under the old agreement they were given 27 days, while under the new they are allowed but 21.,

William Cook, one of the owners of the East Trenton pottery, stated that the men want more pay than that given to similar workmen in any other Trenton pottery. He also claimed that but 14 men were out on strike.

It was further reported this morning that the Crescent pottery and Willets' Manufacturing company were both closed down. Inquiries at both plants caused much surprise and a denial of the reports. At the Crescent it was stated that there was no other difficulty than that which had been going on at that plant for the past two months with the kiln hands, and that the same number of men were working today that has been engaged for the past few weeks.

At the Willets company the report of a shut down rather caused amusement and the reply was that it was

THE NATIONAL CONVENTION

Will be One of the Greatest and Most Remarkable of Recent Years.

Washington, June 6.-One more week and the Republican hosts will be gathered inPhiladelphia for the greatest and most remarkable convention MEN RETURN TO WORK TODAY of recent years. No Republican president has been renominated by acclamation since Grant. The enthusiasm which will attend the renomination of William McKinley will make the convention great and remarkable. Then, too, there has never been a vice presidential situation like the one of this year. Just now it looks like a sure enough contest and several ballots.

This coming convention, unlike all others in many respects, will not stampede for any candidate for vice president. It will not force the nomination on any one not willing to run. It is considered an unwholesome plan to nominate a man who does not want an honor, as was done with Logan in 1884. This time there will be no defeated presidential candidate to appease with second place honor-no giving out of the vice presidency as a sop or compromise with a faction. There are no factions in the Republican party. So then I think there will be several canbefore the Philadelphia convention. This means several ballots. It will be a question of the survival of the fittest, and no doubt the best man will win. Of course, if the administration should indicate a preference for a certain man, no one can question the ability of the president's friends to make the nomination certain.

SOLDIERS' BURIAL LAW

Amended so as to be Practically Destroyed by Last General Assembly.

The general assembly amended the soldiers' burial law at the last session and practically destroyed the measure.

It was claimed that the provisions of the statute were being violated to such an extent as to demand safeguards against alleged fraud. The Young Men's Christian association founded in London. Organizations of Christian young men have existed in all Protestant countries for 200 years. The modern English speaking associations began by a meeting of clerks in a London mercantile house in 1844, organized by George Williams, a clerk. The movement started by Williams developed into the first permanent associations. It was soon imitated in the great cities of the kingdom. Montreal formed one after the London model in 1851, and Boston soon followed. The civil war retarded the growth of branches in the United States, but at its close, or in 1866, a new impetus was given to the movement, and ten years there were 700 associations, with a membership of 100,000. The associations in the United States and Canada are affiliated in an international convention, organized in 1854. Count Camillo Burso de Cavour, statesman. died in Turin; born there 1810.

will be felt throughout Ohio, says the Coshocton Age. Heretofore county commissioners have ordered roads cpened and township trustees obeyed without a murmur. Under the decision the trustees will decide whether they will open such roads.

The decision was the outcome of a suit brought by the commissioners a year ago in common pleas court against Phineas Infeld and the other trustees of Bethlehem township. Parties in that township nad petitioned for a road. The commissioners recognized the petition and directed the trustees to have the road opened. The trustees failed to obey the order because they had no money for that purpose and did not consider the road one for general utility. Proceedings in mandamus were instituted, and the trustees fought it out in court. They lost in common pleas and carried it to circuit court on error. Judge Burrows handed down the opinion.

The decision is that trustees have carries with it the fact that township trustees have discretion in such matters and their judgment cannot be ignored by the commissioners.

This is the first time that the question has been taken before a circuit court in Ohio, and the decision has caused widespread interest. Judge Roche has received a number of letters from different parts of the state freight station, and in doing so it was inquiring into the matter, and has in turn given out the details.

THE SOUTH DAKOTAN'S SENSATION.

Declared Cramp Told Him He Gave $400,-000 to Republicans In 1892, Which Was Wrongfully Used-Carter Denied It-Rung In Hanna Bribery Charges,

Washington, June 6.-Mr. Bacon (Ga.) precipitated a scene in the senate during the time the anti-trust bill was before the senate reiterating a charge, make several days ago by Mr. Pettigrew, that Mr. Cramp, the Philadelphia shiipbuilder, had contributed $400,-000 to the Republican campaign fund in the trusts. During this session of con-1892, with the understanding that he would be reimbursed by contracts for the construction of warships for the government. This charge, Mr. Bacon said, had been denied neither by Mr. Hanna, the present chairman of the Republican question of constitutional amendment. national committee, nor by Mr. Carter, who was chairman of the committee in 1892. Mr. Hanna said he had nothing to do with the management of the campaigd in 1892. He vigorousiy denied any knowledge of such a transaction and expressed his opinion that it was false. Mr. Carter declared Be Was Chosen One of Delegates by the statement properly could be branded only as a lie. He said money was received, but only through voluntary contributions. Mr. Pettigrew insisted on replying. Said he;

"I made the statement that a contribution of $400,000 had been made by Mr. Cramp to the Republican national committee in 1892. and that he was to be reimbursed for it with contracts for additional warships. My authority for the statement is Mr. Cramp himself," declared Mr. Pettigraw, deliberately. This created a sensation in the chamber.

"He told me, not in confidence, as I believe, on an ocean liner coming across the Atlantic. He did not know where the money had gone, and had employed detectives to find out. He intimated that it had not been used for campaign purposes. Moreover," continued Mr. Pettigrew, his words almost hissing through the chamber, "I have said the same things to the senator who was chairman of the Republican national campaign committee of that year, and he waived it off, smilingly, with the statement: 'Well, we did hit the old man pretty

Adverting to Mr. Hanna, Mr. Pettigrew brought up the charges of bribery which had teen made against the Ohio senator at the time of his election to the senate, reading voluminously from the report of the minority of the committee on privileges and elections, including newspaper stories of the accounts of alleged telephone conversations between Mr. Hanna's friends and other persons. These statements, Mr. Pettigrew thought, could not be swept aside lightly by Mr. Hanna.

Mr. Hanna said he felt like offering an apology to the senate for pursuing the subject further, and he would not do so if he did not desire "to show to the senate that the whole ! matter was a conspiracy-a part of a concerted plan to work up some political capital."

"There was a pretty lively scrap in Columbus," said he, good humoredly. "It was due partly to the Democratic party and partly to the work of traitors to their party and to their country, like the senator from South rettigrev , saying they had been published first in a Democratic newspaper of Columbus and fully and complethly denied by him at that time. He referred to Senator Burke, of Cleveland, as one of the chief conspirators in the senatorial election and denounced him as "a traitor and a scoundrel," who had, as a Republican, lent himself to the conspiracy against his party, and subsequently had been disbarred and disgraced in his native city.

Then he read a clipping from a South Da. kota newspaper, in which Mr. Pettigrew was characterized as a traitor to his state. and declared that he did not represent the people of South Dakota.

"That," declared Mr. Hanna, vehemently, "is my accuser in the senate of the United States, and that is the estimation in which he is held by the people of his own state. * • * I have often sat in my seat listening to him, and thought him insane. Much of the stuff he has uttered on this floor is the veriest

"When it comes to personalities," hotly asserted Mr. Hanna, in conclusion, "I will stand up with him and compare my character with his. He may tell what he knows about me, and then"-with emphasis on every word-"I will tell what I know about him.'

Mr. Carter in a most vigorous manner denied the statement of Mr. Pettigrew. He said he did not believe the conversation alleged to have taken place between Pettigrew and Cramp ever occurred. He denied absolutely that any conversation between himself and Pettigrew had occurred.

Mr. Carter warned the Democrats that as they were to associate with Mr. Pettigrew they must have a care. He said the old adage was applicable "that they who laid down with dogs must expect to get up with fleas."

Mr. Pettigrew replied briefly, saying the conversation had occurred.

Mr. Foraker then read extracts from the minority report of State Senator James R. Garfield on the investigation into the Ohio senatorial election. This report had, he said, satisfied the people of Ohio and he believed it would satisfy the people of the United States that the investigation was not one of serious import. Mr. Garfield's statement had been accepted by a large majority of the people of Ohio as an adequate explanation. That the country would understand the political purpose of this debate he did not doubt, nor did he think that the people of the country at large would fail to appreciate the situation, nor to make response as Oregon had responded yesterday (monday.)

Further along in the session, Mr. Teller suggested that if Mr. Carter felt aggrieved over Mr. Pettigrew's charges, he could secure an investigation by a committee of the Republican senate. He (Teller) would like to see not only the campaign of '92, but that of '96 impartially

"Pretoria, June 5.—12:55 p. m.— Just before dark yesterday the enemy were beaten back from nearly all the positions they had been holding and Ian Hamilton's mounted infantry followed them to within 2,000 yards of Pretoria, though they retreated hastily. "De List then sent an officer with a flag of truce into the town, demanding its surrender in my name. Shortly before midnight I was awakened by two o cicials of the South African republic, Sandberg, military secretary to Commandant General Botha, and a general officer of the Boer army, who brought me a letter from Botha, proposing an armistice for the purpose of settling the terms of surrender.

"I replied that I would gladly meet the commandant general the nex ing, but that I was not prepared to discuss any terms, as the surrender of the town must be unconditional. I asked for a reply by daybreak, as I had ordered the troops to march on the town

NEGRO EXHIBIT FOR PARIS.

It Shows the Condition and Development of Negroes In Georgia.

A special exhibit showing the condition and development of the negro in typical southern states and especially of the 850,000 negroes in the state of Georgia left Atlanta recently for the Paris exposition. The exhibit was prepared for shipment at the Atlanta university, the well known negro college. The whole exhibit is an attempt to show in a wall space 6 by 3 feet, which is all the room allowed for it at the great show, what the negro really is in the south.

The exhibition consists of five parts, says the New York Sun. One is an electric clock in a carved frame, showing at successive intervals of time the number of acres of land owned by the negroes of Georgia since 1870. The clock was carved by an illiterate, unskilled workman, and on the frame are bas reliefs of cotton, corn and tobacco. Thirty-one charts, done by hand in colors, show the growth and distribution of the negro population in Georgia and throughout the world; the age, classification and conjugal condition of the negroes of this state as compared with the whites, the proportion of mulattoes, the amount of property owned and the income and expenditure of negro families. Statistics of 150 negro families in Atlanta and some 2,000 families in country districts in south Georgia have been used as a basis for this compilation.

Five maps of Atlanta, Savannah, Albany and McIntosh county are in the exhibit. On these maps the distribution of the negro population is given, this being indicated by different colors and each color standing for different social classes. With each goes a book of statistics of the property and occupations of the negroes in the place. Nine large quarto volumes, bound in leather, contain a collection of all the laws passed in Georgia in regard to the negroes from 1832 to 1889. Three other volumes give pictures of 200 typical negro faces. The other two volumes show pictures of street scenes in negro

A New Use For Balloons.

M. Letorey, a French architect, has applied the captive balloon to the cleaning or decorating of cupolas, high roofs, towers and monuments, says the London Globe. The balloon can be raised or lowered from a wagon by a windlass and it can be steadied by stays from the side of the envelope It has two platforms, or "nacelles," one on the top, the other underneath, and these communicate by a ladder up a central tube. The "balloon scaffold." as it is called, might be useful and safe in many operations, such as now require steeple jacks; for example, the wreathing of Nelson's column and also in wireless telegraphy as an aerial sta-

The ceremony of the corner stone laying will take place Monday evening at 7 o'clock, conducted by Rt. Rev. W. A. Leonard, D. D., bishop of the Episcopal church in the state of Ohio. The corner stone will be laid with a solid silver trowel, which, after being used, will be presented to the bishop by the congregation to be kept by him in memory of the occasion. The rector, Rev. POTTERY STRIKE.

Workmen at the East Trenton Pottery Cease Work-Claim That Pay Has Been Reduced.

Trenton, June 5.-(Special)-A strike is on at the East Trenton pottery and the works are generally closed down as a result. Seven glost kilnmen have refused to work under the new scale, and in consequence the clay hands, dishmakers and biscuit kiln nands have been thrown out.

The striking kilnmen claim their pay has been reduced from $18 to $14 per week owing to the reduction in the number of days in which they are allowed to fill a kiln. They claim that under the old agreement they were given 27 days, while under the new they are allowed but 21.,

William Cook, one of the owners of the East Trenton pottery, stated that the men want more pay than that given to similar workmen in any other Trenton pottery. He also claimed that but 14 men were out on strike.

It was further reported this morning that the Crescent pottery and Willets' Manufacturing company were both closed down. Inquiries at both plants caused much surprise and a denial of the reports. At the Crescent it was stated that there was no other difficulty than that which had been going on at that plant for the past two months with the kiln hands, and that the same number of men were working today that has been engaged for the past few weeks.

At the Willets company the report of a shut down rather caused amusement and the reply was that it was

WAS HELD IN HIGHEST ESTEEM.

The funeral services over the remains of Dr. Levi O. Williams will be held at the residence at 1 p. m. tomorrow, Rev. Dr. Clark Crawford officiating. Interment will take place in the Lisbon cemetery at noon Friday.

Deceased was born in Madison township, Columbiana county, and spent his boyhood days there on the farm. He attended Mt. Union college and graduated from that institution, afterwards taking up and completing a course in the medical department of the University of Michigan. Upon receiving his diploma he began the practice of his profession at Rochester, Pa., but remained there only a short time, removing to West Point, where practiced successfully for six years. He then removed to Lisbon, where he remained for eight years, coming to East Liverpool from that place. He has been a resident of this city for the past seven years, during which time he has enjoyed a large practice and has been held in highest esteem by his many acquaintances in this city. He has served as physician for the township for some time and has been on the city school board since April, 1898, and was now serving his second term.

Will be One of the Greatest and Most Remarkable of Re-

Washington, June 6.-One more week and the Republican hosts will be gathered in Philadelphia for the greatest and most remarkable convention MEN RETURN TO WORK TODAY of recent years. No Republican president has been renominated by acclamation since Grant. The enthusiasm And Matter Had Been Left Enwhich will attend the renomination of William McKinley will make the convention great and remarkable. Then, too, there has never been a vice presidential situation like the one of this year. Just now it looks like a sure enough contest and several ballots.

This coming convention, unlike all others in many respects, will not stampede for any candidate for vice president. It will not force the nomination on any one not willing to run. It is considered an unwholesome plan to nominate a man who does not want an honor, as was done with Logan in 1884. This time there will be no defeated presidential candidate to appease with second place honor-no giving out of the vice presidency as a sop or compromise with a faction. There are no factions in the Republican party. So then I think there will be several canbefore the Philadelphia convention. This means several ballots. It will be a question of the survival of the fittest, and no doubt the best man will win. Of course, if the administration should indicate a preference for a certain man, no one can question the ability of the president's friends to make the nomination certain.

The Hog In Lisbon.

Lisbon, June 6.—(Special)—At a meeting of the board of health on last Monday evening the question of allowing hogs within the borough limits came up for consideration. For several years the hog has been tabooed within Lisbon's classic limits, but at the meeting on last Monday evening it was decided that the hog was entitled the owners thereof get a permit from the health board. It would seem as the law stood before certain individuals who kept hogs in considerable numbers within the city limits were not required to get a permit, while the poor man, was compelled to dispose of his property or remove it to such a distance from the city as not to offend the olfactory organs of the walking delegate of the board.

HANNA STRUCK BACK.

Pettigrew Aroused the Ohioan to Vehement Reply.

THE SOUTH DAKOTAN'S SENSATION.

Declared Cramp Told Him He Gave $400,-000 to Republicans In 1892, Which Was Wrongfully Used-Carter Denied It-Rung In Hanna Bribery Charges,

Washington, June 6.-Mr. Bacon (Ga.) precipitated a scene in the senate during the time the anti-trust bill was before the senate reiterating a charge, make several days ago by Mr. Pettigrew, that Mr. Cramp, the Philadelphia shiipbuilder, had contributed $400,-000 to the Republican campaign fund in 1892, with the understanding that he would be reimbursed by contracts for the construction of warships for the government. This charge. Mr. Bacon said, had been denied neither by Mr. Hanna, the present chairman of the Republican national committee, nor by Mr. Carter, who was chairman of the committee in 1892. Mr. Hanna said he had nothing to do with the management of the campaigd in 1892. He vigorousiy denied any knowledge of such a transaction and expressed his opinion that it was false. Mr. Carter declared the statement properly could be branded only as a lie. He said money was received, but only through voluntary contributions. Mr. Pettigrew insisted on replying. Said he;

"I made the statement that a contribution of $400,000 had been made by Mr. Cramp to the Republican national committee in 1892, and that he was to be reimbursed for it with contracts for additional warships. My au-thority for the statement is Mr. Cramp himself," declared Mr. Pettigraw, deliberately. This created a sensation in the chamber.

"He told me, not in confidence, as I believe, on an ocean liner coming across the Atlantic He did not know where the money had gone, and had employed detectives to find out. He intimated that it had not been used for campaign purposes. Moreover," continued Mr. Pettigrew, his words almost hissing through the chamber, "I have said the same things to the senator who was chairman of the Republican national campaign committee of that year, and he waived it off, smilingly, with the statement: 'Well, we did hit the old man pretty

Adverting to Mr. Hanna, Mr. Pettigrew brought up the charges of bribery which had teen made against the Ohio senator at the time of his election to the senate, reading voluminously from the report of the minority of the committee on privileges and elections. including newspaper stories of the accounts of alleged telephone conversations between Mr. Hanna's friends and other persons. These statements, Mr. Pettigrew thought, could not be swept aside lightly by Mr. Hanna.

Mr. Hanna said he felt like offering an apology to the senate for pursuing the subject further, and he would not do so if he did not desire "to show to the senate that the whole matter was a conspiracy-a part of a concerted plan to work up some political capital."

"There was a pretty lively scrap in Columbus," said he, good humoredly. "It was due partly to the Democratic party and partly to the work of traitors to their party and to their country, like the senator from South

Mr. Hanna then went at length into the charges made by Pettigrew, saying they had been published first in a Democratic newspaper of Columbus and fully and complethly denied by him at that time. He referred to Senator Burke, of Cleveland, as one of the chief conspirators in the senatorial election and denounced him as "a traitor and a seoundrel," who had, as a Republican, lent himself to the conspiracy against his party, and subsequently had been disbarred and disgraced in his native city.

Then he read a clipping from a South Da. kota newspaper, in which Mr. Pettigrew was characterized as a traitor to his state. and declared that he did not represent the people of

"That," declared Mr. Hanna, vehemently, "is my accuser in the senate of the United States, and that is the estimation in which he is held by the people of his own state. * * * * I have often sat in my seat listening to him, and thought him insane. Much of the stuff he has uttered on this floor is the veriest

"When it comes to personalities," hotly asserted Mr. Hanna, in conclusion, "I will stand up with him and compare my character with his. He may tell what he knows about me, and then"-with emphasis on every word-"I will tell what I know about him.

Mr. Carter in a most vigorous manner denied the statement of Mr. Pettigrew. He said he did not believe the conversation alleged to have taken place between Pettigrew and Cramp ever occurred. He denied absolutely that any conversation between himself and Pettigrew had occurred

Mr. Carter warned the Democrats that as they were to associate with Mr. Pettigrew they must have a care. He said the old adage was applicable "that they who laid down with dogs must expect to get up with fleas. Mr. Pettigrew replied briefly, saying the conversation had occurred. Mr. Foraker then read extracts from the minority report of State Senator James R. Garfield on the investigation into the Ohio senatorial election. This report had, he said, satisfied the people of Ohio and he believed it would satisfy the people of the United States that the investigation was not one of serious import. Mr. Garfield's statement had been accepted by a large majority of the people of Ohio as an adequate explanation. That the country would understand the political purpose of this debate he did not doubt, nor did he think that the people of the country at large would fail to appreciate the situation, nor to vestigation by a committee of the Republican senate. He (Teller) would like to see not only the campaign of '92, but that of '96 impartially

A LETTER FROM BRYAN.

Read In House by Cummings-Represented His Views on Trusts.

WASHINGTON, June 6.-Mr, Cummings read the following letter on the floor of the house:

LINCOLN, Neb., June 2. MY DEAR MR. CUMMINGS-I see that the Republicans are asserting that I think a constitutional amendment necessary for the annihilation of the trusts. I have never said or believed that an amendment was necessary. I have urged legislation which I believe to be constitutional and have said that I favor a constitutional amendment if the decisions of the supreme court declares such legislation constitutional. The Republican party does not want to destroy the trusts. During this session of congress the Republicans have unanimously supported a proposition to give the national banks control of the currency, and thus create a paper money trust. I enclose a copy of my Chicago anti-trust speech, which discusses the question of constitutional amendment. Yours truly, W. J. BRYAN.

"PRETORIA STATION, June 5.-12:55 p. m.-I regret to report that the Thirteenth Imperial Yeomanry had to surrender to a very superior force of the enemy on May 31, near Lindley, On receiving information of the battalion being attacked, I ordered Methuen to proceed with all speed to its assistance.

"PRETORIA, June 5 .- 12:55 p. m .-Just before dark yesterday the enemy were beaten back from nearly all the positions they had been holding and Ian Hamilton's mounted infantry followed them to within 2,000 yards of Pretoria, though they retreated hastily.

"De List then sent an officer with a flag of truce into the town, demanding its surrender in my name. Shortly before midnight I was awakened by two o icials of the South African republic, Sandberg, military secretary to Com-mandant General Botha, and a general officer of the Boer army, who brought me a letter from Botha, proposing an armistice for the purpose of settling the terms of surrender.

"I replied that I would gladly meet the commandant general the next morning, but that I was not prepared to discuss any terms, as the surrender of the town must be unconditional. I asked for a reply by daybreak, as I had ordered the troops to march on the town as soon as it was light.

"In his reply, Botha told me that he had decided not to defend Pretoria, and that he trusted women, children and property would be protected. At 1 o'clock a. m. today, while on the line of march, I was met by three of the principal officials with a flag of truce, stating their wish to surrender the town.

"It was arranged that Pretoria should be taken possession of by her majesty's troops at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

"Mrs. Botha and Mrs. Kruger are both in Pretoria. Some few of the British prisoners have been taken away, but the majority are still at Waterval Over 100 of the officers are in Pretoria. The few I have seen are looking well.'

Atchison Preferred Went Up and Some Other Railroad Stocks Also Rose-Other Features.

New York, June 6.-The stock market showed symptoms of strength at various times Tuesday, but the pressure to sell at the advance proved too much for the limited demand to absorb, and the latter part of the day was given over downward movement, which carries prices below Monday night's level, except for a few stocks. The strength of a few shares was in fact the principal sustaining influence of the market at all times.

Atchison preferred rose to 743, which is on a level with the high record price made two months ago. A number of other railroad stocks whose prospects of dividends or increased dividends have been much exploited but not yet realized showed the greatest sympathy with Atchison. Baltimore and Ohio, Union Pacific and Missouri Pacific were the principal instances. The response else-

HANNA STRUCK BACK.

Pettigrew Aroused the Ohioan to Vehement Reply.

THE SOUTH DAKOTAN'S SENSATION.

Declared Cramp Told Him He Gave $400,-000 to Republicans In 1892, Which Was Wrongfully Used-Carter Denied It-Rung In Hanna Bribery Charges,

Washington, June 6.-Mr. Bacon (Ga.) precipitated a scene in the senate during the time the anti-trust bill was before the senate reiterating a charge, make several days ago by Mr. Pettigrew, that Mr. Cramp, the Philadelphia shiipbuilder, had contributed $400,-1892, with the understanding that he would be reimbursed by contracts for the construction of warships for the government. This charge. Mr. Bacon said, had been denied neither by Mr. Hanna, the present chairman of the Republican national committee, nor by Mr. Carter, who was chairman of the committee in 1892. Mr. Hanna said he had nothing to do with the management of the campaigd in 1892. He vigorously denied any knowledge of such a transaction and expressed his opinion that it was false. Mr. Carter declared the statement properly could be branded only as a lie. He said money was received, but only through voluntary contributions. Mr. Pettigrew insisted on replying. Said he;

"I made the statement that a contribution of $400,000 had been made by Mr. Cramp to the Republican national committee in 1892, and that he was to be reimbursed for it with contracts for additional warships. My au-thority for the statement is Mr. Cramp himself," declared Mr. Pettigraw, deliberately. This created a sensation in the chamber.

"He told me, not in confidence, as I believe, on an ocean liner coming across the Atlantic. He did not know where the money had gone, and had employed detectives to find out. He intimated that it had not been used for campaign purposes. Moreover," continued Mr. Pettigrew, his words almost hissing through the chamber, "I have said the same things to the senator who was chairman of the Republican national campaign committee of that year, and he waived it off, smilingly, with the statement: 'Well, we did hit the old man pretty

Adverting to Mr. Hanna, Mr. Pettigrew brought up the charges of bribery which had teen made against the Ohio senator at the time of his election to the senate, reading voluminously from the report of the minority of the committee on privileges and elections, including newspaper stories of the accounts of alleged telephone conversations between Mr. Hanna's friends and other persons. These statements, Mr. Pettigrew thought, could not be swept aside lightly by Mr. Hanna.

Mr. Hanna said he felt like offering an apology to the senate for pursuing the subject further, and he would not do so if he did not de sire "to show to the senate that the whole matter was a conspiracy-a part of a concerted plan to work up some political capital.'

"There was a pretty lively scrap in Columbus," said he, good humoredly. "It was due partly to the Democratic party and partly to the work of traitors to their party and to their country, like the senator from South

Mr. Hanna then went at length into the charges made by Pettigrew, saying they had Democratic new paper of Columbus and fully and complethly denied by him at that time. He referred to Senator Burke, of Cleveland, as one of the chief conspirators in the senatorial election and denounced him as "a traitor and a scoundrel," who had, as a Republican, lent himself to the conspiracy against his party, and subsequently had been disbarred and disgraced in

Then he read a clipping from a South Da. kota newspaper, in which Mr. Pettigrew was characterized as a traitor to his state. and declared that he did not represent the people of South Dakota.

"That," declared Mr. Hanna, vehemently, "is my accuser in the senate of the United States, and that is the estimation in which he is held by the people of his own state. * * I have often sat in my seat listening to him, and thought him insane. Much of the stuff he has uttered on this floor is the veriest

"When it comes to personalities," hotly asserted Mr. Hanna, in conclusion, "I will stand up with him and compare my character with his. He may tell what he knows about me, and then"-with emphasis on every word-"I will tell what I know about him.'

Mr. Carter in a most vigorous manner denied the statement of Mr. Pettigrew. He said he did not believe the conversation alleged to have taken place between Pettigrew and Cramp ever occurred. He denied absolutely that any conversation between himself and Pettigrew had occurred.

Mr. Carter warned the Democrats that as they were to associate with Mr. Pettigrew they must have a care. He said the old adage was applicable "that they who laid down with dogs must expect to get up with fleas."

Mr. Pettigrew replied briefly, saying the conversation had occurred. Mr. Foraker then read extracts from the minority report of State Senator James R. Garfield on the investigation into the Ohio senatorial election. This report had, he said, satisfied the people of Ohio and he believed it would satisfy the people of the United States that the investigation was not one of serious import. Mr. Garfield's statement had been ac cepted by a large majority of the people of Ohio as an adequate explanation. That the country would understand the political purpose of this debate he did not doubt, nor did he think that the people of the country at large would fail to appreciate the situation, nor to make response as Oregon had responded yes-

Further along in the session, Mr. Teller suggested that if Mr. Carter felt aggrieved over Mr. Pettigrew's charges, he could secure an investigation by a committee of the Republican senate. He (Teller) would like to see not only the campaign of '92, but that of '96 impartially investigated.

A LETTER FROM BRYAN.

Read In House by Cummings-Represented His Views on Trusts.

WASHINGTON, June 6 .- Mr, Cummings read the following letter on the floor of the house:

LINCOLN, Neb., June 2. My DEAR MR. CUMMINGS-I see that the Republicans are asserting that I think a constitutional amendment necessary for the annihilation of the trusts. I have never said or believed that an amendment was necessary. I have urged legislation which I believe to be constitutional and have said that I favor a constitutional amendment if the de cisions of the supreme court declares such legislation constitutional. The Republican party does not want to destroy 000 to the Republican campaign fund in the trusts. During this session of con-1892, with the understanding that he gress the Republicans have unanimously supported a proposition to give the national banks control of the currency, and thus create a paper money trust. I enclose a copy of my Chicago anti-trust speech, which discusses the question of constitutional amendment. Yours truly,

"PRETORIA STATION, June 5.-12:55 p. m .- I regret to report that the Thirteenth Imperial Yeomanry had to surrender to a very superior force of the enemy on May 31, near Lindley. On receiving information of the battalion being attacked, I ordered Methuen to proceed with all speed to its assistance.

"Methuen was then on the march, on the Heilbron side of Kroonstad, and, half an hour after the receipt of my telegram on June 1, he started off. By 10 a. m. of the following day he marched 44 miles in 25 hours, but he was too late to rescue Colonel Spragge's Yeomanry.

"Methuen attacked the Boers, who were between 2,000 and 3,000 strong, and, after a running fight of five hours, completely routed the enemy.

"It is a very regretable circumstance, but I trust it will not be very long before the Irish Yeomanry are released from captivity.'

Lord Roberts Reported That Botha Decided Not to Defend the Place. Mrs. Kruger There.

LONDON, June 6.—The war office received the following from Lord Rob-

"PRETORIA, June 5 .- 12:55 p. m .-Just before dark yesterday the enemy were beaten back from nearly all the positions they had been holding and Ian Hamilton's mounted infantry followed them to within 2,000 yards of Pretoria, though they retreated hastily.

"De List then sent an officer with a flag of truce into the town, demanding its surrender in my name. Shortly before midnight I was awakened by two oficials of the South African republic, Sandberg, military secretary to Com-mandant General Botha, and a general officer of the Boer army, who brought me a letter from Botha, proposing an armistice for the purpose of settling the terms of surrender.

"I replied that I would gladly meet the commandant general the next morning, but that I was not prepared to discuss any terms, as the surrender of the town must be unconditional. I asked for a reply by daybreak, as I had ordered the troops to march on the town as soon as it was light. \

"In his reply, Botha told me that he had decided not to defend Pretoria. and that he trusted women, children and property would be protected. At 1 o'clock a. m. today, while on the line of march, I was met by three of the principal officials with a flag of truce, stating their wish to surrender the town.

"It was arranged that Pretoria should be taken possession of by her majesty's troops at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

"Mrs. Botha and Mrs. Kruger are both in Pretoria. Some few of the British prisoners have been taken away, but the majority are still at Waterval. Over 100 of the officers are in Pretoria. The few I have seen are looking well.'

NEGRO EXHIBIT FOR PARIS.

It Shows the Condition and Development of Negroes In Georgia.

A special exhibit showing the condition and development of the negro in typical southern states and especially Georgia left Atlanta recently for the Paris exposition. The exhibit was prepared for shipment at the Atlanta university, the well known negro college. The whole exhibit is an attempt to show in a wall space 6 by 3 feet, which is all the room allowed for it at the great show, what the negro really is in the south.

The exhibition consists of five parts, says the New York Sun. One is an electric clock in a carved frame, showing at successive intervals of time the number of acres of land owned by the negroes of Georgia since 1870. The clock was carved by an illiterate, unskilled workman, and on the frame are bas reliefs of cotton, corn and tobacco. Thirty-one charts, done by hand in colors, show the growth and distribution of the negro population in Georgia and throughout the world; the age, classification and conjugal condition of the negroes of this state as compared with the whites, the proportion of mulattoes, the amount of property owned and the income and expenditure of negro families. Statistics of 150 negro families in Atlanta and some 2,000 families in country districts in south Georgia have been used as a basis for this compilation.

Five maps of Atlanta, Savannah, Albany and McIntosh county are in the exhibit. On these maps the distribution of the negro population is given, this being indicated by different colors and each color standing for different social classes. With each goes a book of statistics of the property and occupations of the negroes in the place. Nine large quarto volumes, bound in leather, contain a collection of all the laws passed in Georgia in regard to the negroes from 1832 to 1889. Three other volumes give pictures of 200 typical negro faces. The other two volumes show pictures of street scenes in negro
